

1.1 - INTRO

UNDERSTANDING IMAGES – CREATING IMAGESIn any one-day we can experience a whole variety of image - films, television, advertising, paintings, web images, news photos, photos that we or a friend have taken. But why are these images made? How were they made? How do we understand what we see?Let's look at these questions in more detail.Why do we make images? Who for? Where do we see images?How do we read images and how do we learn to do it? What is in the image that we look at?Do we enjoy different types of images in different ways?What are the questions that we should ask about an image that we see? When was the image created?Who made the image and why?How was the image created?So let's look at some images and try to find answers to these questions.[dkrAccordionItems type="glossary" cat="1-intro"][[dkrAccordionItems type="bibliography" cat="1-intro"]][dkrPrevnextButtonsGraphics prevpage="284" nextpage="472"]Please, use a device of at least 1024px width, to view the Art App